S/S - S Mr. Lambert

Please insert on page 2 of the accompanying minutes, ~~herewith~~ indicated, the following:

"The Chairman added that other consequences of the legislation and procedures cited that have been brought to his attention included personal and official resentment abroad, the deprivation of the U.S. science of the stimulus of foreign contributions, the weakening of confidence abroad in our professions of concern for the freedoms--especially freedom of movement and freedom of thought--, the danger of driving into the enemy camp persons who might if afforded the opportunity come to the United States, interference with our psychological warfare operations, and the closing of our doors to intellectuals, labor leaders, and others who, despite their general admissibility, we might for special reasons wish to bring to this country. He added that as opposed to these reasons it had also been brought to his attention that the dangers inherent in the admission of some of these persons might outweigh the advantages sought."
